

These two piece stainless steel louvre blades were specially designed for the pyramid roof enclosures on the George's Quay development.

Each metal section shape was individually drawn and developed using Solid Edge computer software.

They were then cut exactly to shape before being formed into the aerofoil edge shape prior to assembly into completed blades with a stainless steel rafter/frame support system.

